Old Business:

Coastal cleanup

Howard Butler is organizing the Rehoboth coastal cleanup for September 25, 2010, from 9-11 a.m. People are encouraged to sign up on-line. Gloves, a table, clip boards, and pencils will be needed for the event. DNREC will provide T-shirts. Someone needs to bring a camera so that pictures of the event can be put in a Constant Contact e-blast.

Annual meeting

The annual meeting is scheduled at 10:00 am on October 16 at All Saints' Episcopal Church. The fire department has been invited to discuss various issues including the siren system and evacuation route plans. A short board meeting will be held afterwards. Charlie Browne will coordinate refreshments for the annual meeting. A postcard notice will be send to members about the meeting and the speaker.

Donations from the RBHA

A thank you letter was received from Keith Banks for the donation for the dog vest to the police department. A thank you letter was also received from Kathy McGinnis for the fireworks donation.

Several suggestions were made for additional donations, including the neighborhood watch, the Historical Society Museum, which needs to install an elevator to the second floor at an approximate cost of $90,000, another set of beach wheels for the handicapped, the VIA (village improvement association). Plans for donations will be discussed at the November meeting.

New Business:

Elections for the RBHA executive committee are scheduled for the November meeting. Greg

Gause is scheduled for reelection and there is one vacancy.

The annual breakfast appreciation meeting for the city employees was discussed. The breakfast was held last year on Wednesday, October 28, and organized by Elaine Boyle. 45 people attended out of a potential 125 city employees. Greg will check with Elaine Boyle to see if she will coordinate the breakfast this year.

RBHA assisted last December with the Community Unity Dinner sponsored by Main Street and will check on participating again this year.

The fall newsletter will be after the annual meeting in October so that the annual meeting can be included in the newsletter

Establishing an environmental committee was discussed. There was a talk about management of trees, weeds such as English ivy, and the memorial plaques placed by city trees.

Correspondence and Email

Several letters from members were noted.

Committee Updates

The standing committees will be discussed at the January meeting.

Adjournment of the Board Meeting.

The next meeting is to be at All Saints' Church on September 25 at 8:00 a.m. prior to coastal cleanup. The November 20 meeting will be at Camp Rehoboth.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:45 am
